

A photograph of a modern multi-story apartment building at night. The building features large glass windows and balconies, many of which are illuminated from within, showing interior furniture and decor. The building is set against a dark sky. In the foreground, there is a paved area with a curved path, a low wall, and some landscaping. A street lamp is visible on the right side of the path.

When designing and creating a mixed use building that includes commercial space, common areas such as leasing offices or workout facilities, and residential units, consistency in aesthetic is paramount to creating a contemporary and high-end environment.

When suiting door hardware finishes and designs across all spaces in a building, the transition between spaces should be subtle. This can be achieved by ensuring all door hardware matches in terms of style and color.
